Mr Mulock should make every endeavour to secure standing in at least four of the six subjects required for Junior Matriculation at the June test.

Then at the September test, if successful in four subjects in June, he should present himself for the remaining two subjects, or, if unsuccessful in June, he could present himself for four subjects or six subjects, as might seem best under the condition of health at that time. Failure then would mean special consideration by the Committee on Admissions, who might recommend his admission to the Council of the Faculty of Arts. Such favourable recommendation would depend on the character of his Examination in June and in September, with consideration of the condition of his health up to the time of application

William Mulock, Esq.,

Toronto.

Dear Mr. Mulock:

I have talked over with the Registrar the case of your son, and he tells me that your son should make every endeavour to secure standing in at least four of the six subjects for Junior Matriculation in June next. If he is successful in these subjects in June, he should present himself for the remaining two subjects in September. If he is unsuccessful in June, he should present himself for four or six subjects in September, as might seem best under the conditions of his health at the time. The Committee would undoubtedly take into consideration the condition of his health at the time of the examinations and the quality of the work done at the June and September examinations. It is quite possible that if he failed to get his matriculation, they might then on account of his health make special allowance for his being admitted to do the work of the first year in Arts, provided of course it were shown on his examinations that he was able to undertake it.

I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

My dear Sir Williar:

I have to-day received your letter bringing forward the name of Mr. King for the honorary degree of LL.D. I will have pleasure in paying your letter before the Committee. As you are aware there are many names that are considered every spring, and the result is not any individual recommendation but a consensus.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,
